

Clean and Simple Cleaning's Employee Earns House Cleaning Technician Certification

Lynnwood, WA -- Clean and Simple Cleaning, Inc. proudly announces employee, Chanelle Parton recently earned house cleaning training certification from the Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration (IICRC).

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

February 17, 2014 - Lynnwood, WA -- Clean and Simple Cleaning, Inc proudly announces employee, Chanelle Parton recently earned her house training certification from The Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration (IICRC) located in Vancouver, Washington.

Earning the housecleaning technician certification consists of attending a House Cleaning Technician course which provides a knowledge and understanding through the application of science and proven methods for proper cleaning maintenance of a residential home. This course is also supplemented with additional on-the-job training and field experience. To earn the certification an exam must be passed.

Parton has worked at Clean and Simple Cleaning for 2 and a half years. "There are so many reasons why we value Chanelle....She not only comes to work everyday with a positive attitude, but all the cleaners enjoy working with her. No matter what is thrown at her day in and day out, she embraces it and delivers great service to our clients," states Clean and Simple Cleaning's owner, Stacie McMillan.

Parton, who lives in Everett, feels more capable servicing clients after certification. "Being certified is great because not only do I physically know how to clean and get the job done, now I have the knowledge behind it," said Parton. 'I feel more confident in my cleaning.'

Both staff and management at Clean and Simple Cleaning are very proud of Parton and her most recent accomplishment. Parton joins 4 other employees at Clean and Simple Cleaning who have received certification.

About Clean and Simple Cleaning

For over 20 years, Stacie McMillan, owner of Clean and Simple Cleaning, and her team, has had deep roots in the communities of South Snohomish and North Kings Counties, Washington. In this era of big box stores and corporate franchises, Clean and Simple Cleaning is proud to be an independent, locally-owned house cleaning business that prides itself on excellence.

About the Institute of Inspection, Cleaning and Restoration (IICRC)

The IICRC is a nonprofit certifying and standard-setting organization dedicated to raising industry standards by which consumers can receive the highest quality of service from trained, knowledgeable, professional technicians.